

SHAUN McDOWELL

b. 1981, Sussex, UK. Lives and works in Sabina, IT

Shaun McDowell makes striking paintings abundant in movement, drama, texture and harmonies. Working directly from the perceptible world, his apparently abstract pictures are the tangible expression of acute inner feelings, charged with the visual overload of a surrounding world where nothing is fixed. McDowell's paintings are rarely made by brush but by hand and with oil stick, which is rubbed, stubbed, smeared and spread across the board to create smooth areas of just-present colour, heavier built up passages and punctuations of elegant, staccato marks. Having relocated from London to the rolling hills of Torri, Italy, in 2018, McDowell's recent work is born from the natural landscape and historical setting of the Sabine region. Fusing abstraction with allusions to local history and motifs, such as hand-profiled elliptical panels water-gilded with gold, silver and platinum leaf, McDowell creates space and atmosphere to not only see but to feel the strange combined qualities of being alive.
